NAN BEI

ROSEWOOD BANGKOK

DINING MENU

Nan Bei, meaning South and North in Mandarin, offers regional specialties from the two Chinese regions. The restaurant's design is inspired by the lyrical Chinese folktale of the "Weaver Girl and the Cowherd." Legend has it that the Weaver Girl descended from the heavens to bathe in a magical pool, where she met and fell in love with a simple Cowherd. However, her mother disapproved of the union and commanded the girl back to her celestial home. The lovers now can only meet once a year by traversing a bridge in the sky created by magpies. Once crossing through Nan Bei's moongate entrance, you will see an installation resembling 600 illuminated magpies in flight as well as bridge-inspired trusses and a custom-woven art feature that stretches the length of the ceiling in homage to the Weaver Girl who weaves clouds for the sky.
